

Managing the art of Living

Managing the Art of Living is intended for those who want to explore possibilities of alternative services and inclusion in the community. The project assists persons with disabilities and their families and friends to create non-profit corporations that will allow them to live self-directed lives through the use of person-centered planning, community supports, and resource management.

Want to learn more about these Microboards and Human Service Cooperatives?

Register for this free In-Depth Information Session

To be held

May 2, 2009 9:00 am – 2:00 pm
Mt. Vernon Holiday Inn
Mt. Vernon Illinois

For more information or to make your reservation contact:

Managing the Art of Living
104 Woodcreek Court
Mahomet, IL 61853
217-778-5388

Please turn this over to view the valuable information that you will be learning by investing 5 hours of your time. It could change the quality of life for your loved one and you!

Attend the In-Depth Information Session in Mt. Vernon on May 2, 2009 and get these questions answered...

Microboards:

What is a Microboard?

How do persons develop a Microboard?

What is the overview of the process used to help individuals and their families?

What are the examples of pitfalls that Microboards should avoid in order to prosper?

Examples of Microboard success stories

How to get involved and contact the staff of the Managing the Art of Living project if you want to journey down the road of Microboards?

Human Service Cooperatives:

What is a Human Service cooperative?

What does it mean to be a member of a H.S. cooperative?

What are other H.S. cooperatives doing?

What are the proven steps to set up a H.S cooperative?

How does governing your own company give you choice and power over services and your life?

Examples of Human Service Cooperative success stories.

How to get involved and contact the staff of Managing the Art of Living project if you want to journey down the road of a Human Service Cooperative?